NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT. The Fare for the Round-Trip, and Other

Matters of Interest. John S. Lazarus, Chairman of the Committee on Transportation of the 27th National Encampment, Grand Army of the Republic, has reported to Executive Director Fortune that he has been authorized by the General Passenger Agents of all lines entering Indianapolis to announce that they will make for the Grand Army of the Republic National Encampment, to be held in Indianapolis Sept. 4 to 9, a rate of one cent per mile each way for the round-trip. This insures for the Encampment as low rates as has ever been granted, and will, it is believed, bring to Indianapolis, according to the present indications, a very large attendance.

Commander-in-Chief Weissert said the other day that he expected to see the largest and most complete representative soldier-gathering at Indianapolis in September ever brought together since the war. Estimates received at the National Headquarters from the various Departments, and tabulated by the Executive Directors of the coming Encampment, indicate a Grand Army attendance 40 per cent. greater than any former assemblage of the kind.

The evenings of the week during the 27th National Encampment at Indianapolis will be occupied in various ways. There will be receptions to the veterans, electric illuminations, fireworks, etc. One of the most striking evening entertainments will be an elaborate display of natural gas, the city being supplied by natural gas brought in several 16-inch pipe lines from the gas-fields about 25 miles distant. A prominent part of this exhibition will be a reproduction of a lighted gas-well, one of the grandest night displays it is possible to make. A large | ever, as it can be ascertained, due notice will be gas-well, technically called a "gusher," burning at night and filling the air with its roar, will be a sight not soon forgotten. On another evening there will be an exhibition of war pageantry unlike anything heretofore seen at other Encampments.

The Committee on Grand Stands at Indianapolis is favorably impressed with the idea of therefore has varied the custom of former years erecting several thousand seats on the line of | in making visitations. This part has not been definitely settled yet, but the intention is to remove all unpleasant things by having the men and women entirely separate.

The barracks have not yet been selected, but It is intended that they be near the center of the city, certainly not more than 10 minutes more comfortable than have ever been provided before. Already 30,000 weven wire cot beds have been contracted for, and about 20,000 more will be ordered shortly. Each man will bring his blanket, and these will be rolled up and checked, so that there will be no trouble from loss. The selection of the bar- | and J. C. for entertainment upon arrival, a plan has been formulated which, it is believed, will cover the case. After the assignments made in sdvance are all in, the books will be taken and a list of those unfilled made out. These will be transferred to cards. On all the important street corners and in the Union depot there will bureaus of information. When an arrival applies for accommodation a card will be handed him properly filled out, and the thing is done instantly. The system will be like buying tickets at the box office. It is thought that this system will be better than anything yet devised to accomplish the object in view. The Committee on Reception will meet all arrivals at the trains and direct them where to go, looking carefully to see that they find the proper places. The persons who apply previous to the gathering will be sent a properlyfilled-out blank, telling them where to go, the street car to take, and all other necessary information. Accompanying that will be a map of the district in which their lodgings are located, with a pinhole through the exact spot where the house is. In that way there will be

> Pennies for the Heathen. [Hartford Post.]

Madge, aged seven, had a list of questions and answers given her by her Sunday-school teacher to learn, the first of which was, "What is a missionary?" and the auswer, "One sent to teach the heathen." The list was duly learned, and she went to Sunday-school full of importance that she had her lesson perfect. On her return she was asked if she had remembered the answers, and she replied: "Yes, mamma; I only missed the first, and that I only made a mistake of a penny. I said, 'Two cents to teach the heathen' instead of one cent."

That Terrible Scourge.

Malarial disease is invariably supplemented by disturbance of the liver, the bowels, the stomach and the nerves. To the removal of both the cause and its effects Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is fully adequate. It "fills the bill" as no other remedy does, performing its work thoroughly. Its ingredients are pure and wholesome, and it admirably serves to build up a system broken by ill-health and shorn of strength. Constipation, liver and kidney complaint and nervousness are conquered REUNIONS.
